3.1 Name & background of the Project:-

Conserve water through the management of Runoff in the river basin to reduce vulnerability & enhance resilience for traditional livelihood in Nuapada.

This project has approved by MoEF&CC for Rs 20 crore during the end of 2015 and aim to reduce vulnerability & enhance resilience for traditional livelihood in Nuapada district by restoring a hill stream in Jonk river basin through conducting water harvesting structure i.e. check dams to conserve water the management of runoff. The project has aimed to achieve multi sector conservation, promotion of horticulture, linkage the fishery activity as well as efficient use of water for agriculture activity.

3.2 Location:-

The location of the project is near the convergence of Kharkhara Nalla of Nuapada District with the river Jonk. The beneficiaries are the eight villages situated at both sides of the bank of Kharkhara Nalla such as Jangula, Budhipalli, Amildadar, Palsabhadar, Parkod, Bhusudi, Boloda, and Bhainsatal .

4.0 Aim & Objectives of vulnerability assessment

Vulnerability to climate change is the degree to which an agricultural unit has the capacity to sustain the damage due to climate change, including climate variability and extremes. The process of identification, quantification and prioritization of vulnerability in a system is referred to as vulnerability assessment. The study of vulnerability or the degree, to which the people, environment or agriculture is affected, requires mainly three types of information:

- (1) Exposure, i.e. patterns of exposure to occurrences of hazards such as droughts and floods;
- (2) Sensitivity, i.e. the degree to which the system can experience damages due to a particular event; and
- (3) Adaptive capacity, i.e. the capacity of a system to recover from disaster and hazards.

4.1 Overall requirement of the Resources Support Agency (RSA) for Vulnerability Analysis

As Vulnerability is a function of the character magnitude, and rate of climate variation it is highly essential to find the Current and Future Impacts, Understanding Exposure, Sensitivity is determined by the condition of the elements within the path of the hazard through the following conditions

- a. Social conditions
- b. Economic conditions
- c. Composite Environmental conditions
- d. Agricultural conditions
- e. Water resources conditions
- f. Health vulnerability Index
- g. Forest vulnerability Index
- h. Impact Assessments

4.2 Scope of the work:-

The Critical Thresholds can be identified by the agency with a lot of statistical mechanism and analysis for the following assessments.
